PULASKI, TENN, FRIDAY MORNING, JAN'Y. 26, 1866

One Wife is Enough.

It is proposed, now that slavery is at an end, to commence an onslaught upon polygamy, as practised among the Mormons. Even the United States officers in Utah are said to indulge openly in a plurality of wives! If this be so, it is another reason why steps should at once be taken to put an end to the disgraceful custom. One wife ought to be enough for any man, and to tolerate polygamy is to beastilise humanity-to reduce it to the level of "the beasts of the field," instead of elevating it to the height but a "little lower than the angels," which belongs to its immortal nature. And yet we admit that it becomes a very nice question as to what constitutional grounds we can base our right on to interfere with the religious inculcations of any particular faith, or the local (and not unconstitutional) laws of any community. We are afraid that the gentlemen in Congress who are so apt in the manufacture of " Constitutional Amendmentss" at this crisis, will have to add one more to the long catalogue, in order to reach this Utah abomination. It looks to us very like a dilemma of that calibre.

What is Poetry?

Samile, a tear, a glory, a longing after of Eternity. It lives in all creasurrounds m. m. sere is poetry in the gentle influences of love and affection in the quiet broodings of the soul over the memories of early years, and in the thoughts of glory that chain our spirits to the gates of Paradise. There is poetry in the harmonies of nature. It glitters in the wave, the rainbow, the lightning and the star-its cadence is heard in the thunder, and in the enterect-its softer tones gurgle sweetly from the thousand voice-harps of wind, and rivulet, and forest-the cloud and the sky go floating over us to the music of its melodies-and it ministers to Heaven from the mountains of the earth, the untrodden unexplored shrines of the ocean.

There is not a moonlight ray that comes down upon a stream or hill, not a breeze calling from its blue air throne to the birds of the summer valley, or sounding through midnight rains its low and mournful dirge over the perishing flowers of spring; not a cloud bathing itself like an Angel vision in the rosy flush of evening twilight, nor a rock glowing in the yellow starlight as if dreaming of the Eden land, but is full of the beautiful influence of poetry. Earth and heaven are quickened by its spirit, and the heavings of the great deep in tempest and in calm are but its secret and mysterious breathings.

Remember Me.

There are not two other words in the language that call back a more fruitful train of past remembrance of friendship, than these. Look through your library, and when you find a volume that contains the name of an old companion, it will say-remember me. Have you an ancient album, the repository of the mementos of early affection; turn over its leaves stained by the finger of time-sit down and ponder upon the names enrolled upon them; each saysremember me. Go into the crowded churchvard, among the tombs read the simple and brief inscriptions that perpetuate the memory of the departed loved ones; they too, have a voice that speaks to the hearts of the living, and it says-remember me. Walk in the hour of evening twilight, amid the scenes of your early rambles; the wellknown paths, the winding streams, the over-spreading trees, the green and gently sloping banks, well recall the dreams of juvenile pleasures; and the recollection of youthful companions; they too, bear the treasured injunction-remember me, editors love to hug delusions.

Why is a bald head like heaven? Because there is no parting there.

What fruit does a newly married couple most resemble? A green pear.

Why is iron-rust like a side of leather? Because it is an ox'ide.

Flowers fling their wealth upon the vacant sir, and rich men often fling theirs upon the vacant heir.

Why is a husband like a Mississippi steamboat? Because he never knows when he may get a blowing up.

Many persons are led by their vices as there are many who are led by their noses; but there are a far greater number who fol low both without any leading at all.

"FATHER," said an ambitious youngster, about the size of a pepper box, "I can do without shoes, but I'm suffering for a bosom pin." and a load at the S

On a tombstone in a churchyard in Ulster is the following epitaph: "Erected to the memory of John Phillips, accidentally shot as a mark of affection by his brother."

A German being required to give a receipt in full, after much mental effort produced the following:

"I ish full. I wanths no more monish. "John Swachammer."

Dr. John Wilkins wrote a work in the time of Charles II. to show the possibility of making a voyage to the moon. The Dutchess of Newcastles, who was likewise notorious for her vagrant speculation, said to him, "Doctor, where am I to bait at in the upward journey?" 'My lady,' replied the doctor, "of all the people in the world, I never expected that question from you, who have built so many castles in the air, that you could lie every night at one of your

RATES OF POSTAGE.

In consequence of the general ignorance in the South of the rules of postage established by law, many letters of importance are daily lost to those interested by being improperly or insufficiently stamped. The regulations require that all such let ters dropped into post offices shall be immediately forwarded to the Dead Letter office, where they are never heard from unless they contain money, or other enclosures of value. We give below sonfe information which may prevent vexation to corres-

The rate of postage on letters within the United States is 3 cents for every letter or scaled package weighing one half ounce or under. Those over onehalf ounce, 6 cents and 8 cents for every additional half ounce. Prepayment with stamps in all cases is required. All letters without the necessary postage stamps, or which are stamped with revenue stamps, will be forwarded to the Dead Letter office immediately after being dropped into any post office. Postage stamps issued prior to 1860 are worthless and will not answer for present purposes.

Woman is said to be a mere delusion, but | Opinions of Distinguished Business Men.

"Advertise your business. Do not hide your light under a bushel. Whatever your calling or occupation may be, if it needs support from the public, advertise it thoroughly and efficiently in some shape or other, that will arrest public attertion. I freely confess that what success I have had in life may fairly be attributed more to the public press than to nearly all the other causes combined. There may possibly be occupations that do not require advertising, but I cannot well conceive what they are .- P. T. BARNUM.

"I have always considered advertising-liberally and long-to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have always made it an invariable rule, too, to advertise in the dullest times, a long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out; as by keeping my business continually before the public, has secured me many sales that I otherwise would have lost."-STEPHEN GIRARD.

"Whatever success I may have had in business I owe mainly to continuous advertising, and I deem it good policy to advertise long in the same papers. From a close observation I am folly convinced that it is impossible to make much headway in any kind of business, without the facilities which the press alone can give.—Jacob Ridgeway.

"My motto through lite has been, work and advertise. In busines, advertising is the true philosopher's stone, that turns whatever it touches to rold. I have advertised much, both in the weekly as well as the daily papers; nor have I found that those of the largest circulation, of either class, benefitted me the most .- John Jacon Aston.

"Advertise! advertise! This is the life of trade; and standing advertisements, you will find, will prove the most remunerative, at least I have found it so during my business career thus far; for should you withdraw but a single week from the paper in which you are accustomed to advertise, ten to one that would be the time when some would be new customers will look into the paper for your business address, and not finding it, you will lose several profitable sales .- WILLIAM GHAY.
